Mission

Food Sector

Mission

To identify gaps in county services, strengthen service organizations, and create a networked countywide system of services, timely support and empowerment. Identifying solutions that meet the needs of those county residents with and without access to the web.

Food insecurity is strengthened with food pantries and food banks in all community centers, schools and campuses — with support from new public-private sector partnerships and apps to organize distribution.

The 100% New Mexico action team on food focuses on food security. The team assesses where gaps in food security services are and works to implement solutions. Food banks at schools, colleges and other venues are explored for feasibility and innovations are developed. Private and public sector partnerships are developed between the food industry and local food banks and pantries

Housing Sector

Mission

To identify gaps in county services, strengthen service organizations, and create a networked countywide system of services, timely support and empowerment. Identifying solutions that meet the needs of those county residents with and without access to the web.

Housing insecurity is reduced and rapid-rehousing of vulnerable populations achieved through public-private sector partnerships, innovation, research and tested models.

To meet housing needs, the action teams assess the need for immediate rapid rehousing, as well as all forms of housing insecurity. From there, the team researches solutions and designs local initiatives to address gaps in housing. The action team's work is informed by decades of new design focused on green buildings, tiny homes and prefabricated structures and city zoning laws to increase additional dwelling units.

Behavioral Health Action Team

Mission

To identify gaps in county services, strengthen service organizations, and create a networked countywide system of services, timely support and empowerment. Identifying solutions that meet the needs of those county residents with and without access to the web.

All forms of behavioral health care are enhanced with delivery systems empowered by video conferencing. A countywide system of support is strengthened.

The 100% New Mexico action team focused on behavioral health care serves a vital role in a time of crisis and change. The action team works with partners in the behavioral healthcare field to support reaching all county residents with the timely care they may need. This includes assessing to what degree county residents have easy access to current care. Gaps will include costs, transport and awareness of services. In many cases, the team can promote use of video conferencing technology to serve many clients. Assessments by the team are made to identify who might not be able to use such technology and create face to face options for behavioral health care. New support groups are being developed to meet the unique needs of different populations.

Community Schools Sector

Mission

To identify gaps in county services, strengthen service organizations, and create a networked countywide system of services, timely support and empowerment. Identifying solutions that meet the needs of those county residents with and without access to the web.

With technology and the fully-resourced “community school” model, we vastly improve instruction and student achievement and health.

The 100% New Mexico action team on schools and “community schools” is focused on resourcing all public schools so they have the staff and resources to meet the new needs of students and parents. This includes creating school-based health centers to serve the entire school community. In addition to medical, dental and behavioral health care, the community school model is one where there are extra tutors and navigators to link students and parents to local accessible surviving and thriving services. Educators can be empowered to make effective use of learning technologies to enrich the educational experience in the classroom and online.

Parent Supports

Mission

To identify gaps in county services, strengthen service organizations, and create a networked countywide system of services, timely support and empowerment. Identifying solutions that meet the needs of those county residents with and without access to the web.

Isolated and vulnerable parents and caregiving grandparents find support online day and night.

The 100% New Mexico action team focused on parent support programs will assess parents and parents-to-be, learning to what degree they have access to various forms of home visitation, child care and support. With video conferencing tech found on one's mobile device, we may be able to grow the parent support network online. We must work with the private sector and foundations to ensure every parent has the tech and wifi to access vital parent supports. This is a top priority to ensure safe childhoods and empowered parents. The goal is ongoing enrichment and creating a community of caring support.

Youth Mentors

Mission

To identify gaps in county services, strengthen service organizations, and create a networked countywide system of services, timely support and empowerment. Identifying solutions that meet the needs of those county residents with and without access to the web.

All of a county's youth mentor programs align with one another to create a seamless system of mentorship that is both face-to-face and web-based in our ever-changing world.

The 100% New Mexico initiative action team on youth mentorship is faced with a new reality, a society where working parents (and those seeking work) are stretched thin, and would benefit from additional mentorship for their children and teens. The goal of the youth mentoring action team is to ensure that all parents and youth seeking access to a mentoring program can find one and access a mentor in a timely manner. The goal is to have a countywide system in place that can recruit and train mentors to meet the need and educate parents about the benefits of mentorship. This will require unprecedented collaboration between all mentoring groups, youth development agencies, school districts, the business sector and county and city governments.
